Consult with colleagues

With Encounter's state-of-the art products, physicians, nurse practitioners and specialists can consult with each other quickly – and effectively online. Conduct your next peer consult with colleagues around the globe with media-rich conferencing tools and crystal clear audio connections. Encounter's services allow you to consult with more colleagues, at less cost, than traditional communication methods.

Exchange Information with Physicians

Exchanging information, quickly and comprehensively, is critical in the healthcare industry. Encounter's products have been designed for speed: ad-hoc, impromptu and on-the-fly meetings are at your disposal. There's no need to schedule meetings in advance – simply login, click, and start your online meetings and conference calls. With services this easy to use, you'll be able to exchange critical patient information with physicians across town or across the globe.

Increase Staff and Department Communications

Healthcare professionals are often working in multiple practices, hospitals, clinics and labs. Increase the communication between your disparate staff members by conducting your department and clinic meetings online. With interactive conferencing tools, attendees can be active participants in your web meetings. From white boards to polling, desktop sharing to live Q&A, your staff members will be up to speed on critical information.

Medical Auditing for Less

Add to the bottom line of skyrocketing healthcare costs by using Encounter's time – and money – saving products and services to conduct medical audits and investigations. With meeting archive features, medical auditors can capture critical interview information for archive and playback at a later time. Combined with Encounter's unique break-out session capabilities, auditors can conduct multiple interviews concurrently – saving both time and money.
